

ABA:68151344

SPa ventral

A fluorescence microscopy image showing a blue, elongated, and somewhat irregularly shaped structure against a black background. The structure is divided into two main lobes by a vertical line. A horizontal line crosses the middle of the structure. The left lobe is slightly larger and has a small, bright blue spot near its bottom edge. The right lobe is more rounded. The overall shape is reminiscent of a butterfly or a pair of wings.